Managing Debts

Sometimes debts can get out of hand leaving you feeling overwhelmed and even helpless. If this is the case for you, get advice quickly. It is important to act rather than to ignore the problem and hope it will simply go away.

There are many strategies for dealing with debt and the important thing is to take control. To explore the strategies available to you and to talk through 'managing debts' you should speak to the Employee Assistance Programme (EAP). The EAP has specialist Debt Counsellors on hand offering sound advice and help to get you back on track.

The EAP Debt Counsellors can also offer you emotional support in regards to facing your debt issues and the stress associated with having money worries.

You will also find useful information via the EAP website including downloadable factsheets, programmes and related links.

There are many issues the EAP can help you with from changes in your work or home life, health and wellbeing, family and relationship issues, stress, anxiety & depression through to debt counselling and budget management.

Please also remember that your
Employee Assistance Programme is here for you
